Use of Cookies

Some pages on this sites may use “cookies”—small files that the sites place on your hard drive for identification purposes. Cookies cannot read information from your hard drive. They will also not run programs or deliver viruses to your computer.

A cookie file can contain information such as a user ID to track the pages visited, but the only personal information a cookie can contain is information you supply. These files are used for sites registration and to customize your visit to the sites. The cookie will tell the Web server that you have returned to a specific page on the Web sites, and it will customize the sites’ features for you.

Your Web browser may notify you when you are receiving a cookie and it may give you the choice to accept or reject it. You can set your browser to warn you about cookies, and to determine if you want to refuse all cookies. If you chose not to accept cookies, some pages may not fully function and you may not be able to access certain information on the sites.

Information Sharing

Frontier Schools does not share your information without your permission, except if you consent to share your information to a third party service provider working on Frontier Schools’ behalf.

Frontier Schools will also disclose your personal information, if required to do so by law, or in urgent circumstances, such as, but not limited to, those that involve the need to protect an individual's personal safety, the protection of the public or the protection of Frontier Schools' rights or property. Frontier Schools will not sell, rent or lease your information to anyone, or let anyone use it except if you have authorized its use.

Internet Security

Frontier Schools strives to protect your personal information; however, we urge you to take every precaution to protect your personal data when you are on the Internet. Please take proactive steps to secure your personal data, such as frequently changing your passwords.
